After several unsuccessful attempts at writing an editorial for this issue of SPORTS, I decided to look through some old issues for an idea.

It felt like an efficient, almost eerily instantaneous, transition from the old world of the past to the new world of the future.
I felt like I was in a new world.
I felt like I was in a new world.

If also felt that one should write about something relevant to the world about politics or women or nuclear radiation. It is about your first day at school.

Many years ago in the not so long lost memory we can all remember a beautiful good boy in our parish left us in the kindergarten class. After we realized that school wasn't the end and that we were allowed to play with really neat stuff like miniature firetrucks and diggers, we took the first step towards heaven.

That's right, it was, just if you could survive hunger! Then you were meat for a vulture!

Well now here you are years later going through all the same motions and asking the same questions: what am I doing here? Will they let me go home for lunch? What's that do take? Home for is like a Tavern? Well almost it

There's no doubt about it, you made it! You're in college now. The world is your oyster.

If you aren't participating in the El Comedor Pasa Pasa, change the Winter Carnival or the Florida trip. Then just go to school. It is a waste of time.

Two minutes after you start, you'll slip into the college's virtual reality.

Visit it for free for your 30-day because you still enjoy that parking spot, you'll still smile in the middle of the California and everyone, will look at you the door will crack down as loud when you try to sneak into class unseen and walk away like a king you'll get a surprise that this was the best part of the day.

After six months you will be able to balance your monthly books; a short-hand work book (three months worth of computer printouts) and a calendar (the most important one) and still maintain that uncluttered, efficient position of your desk.

If you would wonder where the year went and have only a few fuzzy pictures from the Florida trip or one, six from the Quebec or an remarkable winter. Then you'll be needed by all students and will advance up the ladder of seniority within this mighty post secondary

And enough for some time. And then...

Some words of wisdom when in doubt: stop the cultural war at gun point and ask them to suffer coming to them! you can have it both together and set it all on the right track that

Canadian World Series POINT COUNTER POINT

by Ross MacLean

by Mark Bryant

No doubt about it: The Toronto Blue Jays are for real. Although it may be a little early to predict world series action, the early season studies have been extremely by the blue skies.

The Jays have played as well as any team in the majors and no other team has been as consistent day in and day out. They have only lost more than three in a row once (last season) and no other team can claim that feat. They have had the most consistent starting pitchers and the best all around ball game in the American League. They are in the top five in all batting statistics and are second in fielding percentage.

With some observers are wondering why the Jays have been forced from the water to the beach. According to Frank Cox, the Jays manager, the biggest reason is the lack of the strong talent such as Lloyd Moseby and Willie Upshaw. This may be true, but Toronto has also changed because of some old stars, mostly Cliff Johnson. Cliff has brought leadership and a winning ball team to the Jays. Dave Collins is finally coming around after his slow start, which was partly due to injuries. His speed and potential will be a great asset to the Jays next important acquisition.

Lloyd Moseby has finally reached his potential and has won many games this year with his speed and his gold glove. He has been a consistent player in the majors and is one of the most feared hitters in the American League. His ability to hit the ball has saved many runs.

The Jays are still getting better. They have been a consistent player in the majors and is one of the most feared hitters in the American League. His ability to hit the ball has saved many runs.

Though it is a long way off, they will be there next year. They are in the top five in all batting statistics and are second in fielding percentage. They are in the top five in all batting statistics and are second in fielding percentage.

The 1983 baseball season is winding into the home stretch with a very close division race. The race that started in the first inning in May, is still on. The Jays are in the top five in all batting statistics and are second in fielding percentage.

The big question is: Can the Jays do it? If you go with your heart, you will, but realistically, it is a long shot.

The Jays close out the season with a competitive game against the weaker Western division teams. They will probably win probably more games than the Jays. They will probably win probably more games than the Jays. They will probably win probably more games than the Jays.

The Jays look at past season experience will also come against them. There are only five players with playoff experience on the Jays — Cliff Johnson, Dave Collins, and Willie Upshaw. They will probably win probably more games than the Jays. They will probably win probably more games than the Jays.

September is a month where pitchers tend to find the slumps of the long season more than other players. The only new Jays have been getting strong performances out of their three big pitchers, Dave Collins, Jim Clardy, and Lou Livan. They will probably win probably more games than the Jays. They will probably win probably more games than the Jays.
